

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is an immoral act in my opinion.

Sinclair uses the airwaves at no charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. This move to show an anti-Kerry documentary and, from what I've heard and read, will not be upfront with viewers that it's a "political ad" paid for by Sinclair. In my opinion this is unfair political advertising and is a perfect example of why media concentration should not be allowed and why regulations should be more stringent in this area.

I urge you to take action and try to force Sinclair to not show this documentary, or if they do, to show the Kerry movie just before or after the Bush movie with plenty of explanation that it's politics. You at the FCC have the obligation to keep the airways fair and honest. Please review Sinclair's applications in the future more closely and stop them from buying more stations.

Democracy is not served when people are unwittingly misled. Thank you.
